

DISCOVERING YOUR KARMA MISSION and PURPOSE in LIFE

A “Karma Mission” is simply an act of sharing what is innate in you.

We discover it usually by being inspired, entertained, encouraged or empowered by something or someone else that we share this universe with.

Our karma mission and purpose in life is as much apart of us as our date of birth.

It is [what I believe] something that was predestined for us-the purposeful reason why we exist and co-exist.

We were born at a certain time, month, day and year-into an already pre-planned mold of what we are supposed to do, and by way of that, we are “kept track of.” However, as terrestrials with intuitive dominion over the life form that we share; we are granted the privilege of living by free will, or a life in default (to whatever circumstances or situations that are available to us-bad or good). The Creator of the universe is so divine in order, balance and continuity that just like the 4 seasons, 365 days per year, 52 weeks within the year, 24 hours within the day and 7days within a week; this “keeping track of” is It’s goal for us too-to be kept track of (like the seasons and time). However, in order for the world to go ‘round, it is essential that there is balance and imbalance, obedience and disobedience, order and disorder: however, our time, month, day and year that we were born is an order and where our pre-destiny lies. But until it is discovered (by being inspired, entertained, encouraged or empowered), we remain on that continuum of the world going ‘round, and the universe checks in on us-to see how we are living (or not living). I believe that our spiritual nudges come in the form of what we feel about what we are doing, and what we are feeling by how we are living. Our personal success, our self-worth, our lives, and our personal contentment is contingent upon the order of things that we follow in our practical and tangible lives, and as well, our spiritual and immaterial lives-both: in balance.

Now that you have learned “First Things First” (everything about your personological self- from pages 1-183 of this book) let’s get down to the business of “Discovering Your Karma Mission and Purpose in Life.”

To ORGANIZE: When one organizes, he develops an organic structure of a thing and forms it into a complete and functioning whole. He sets up an administrative structure for, arranges systematically, and plans a united effort. He unionizes, institutionalizes, finds, and establishes.

To COMMUNICATE: When one communicates, he makes known-a thing and passes some thing from one to another. He transmits. He joins and connects that which, by way of communicating, information or opinion is transmitted or exchanged.

CAPRICORN'S KARMA MISSION and PURPOSE IN LIFE is to LEAD

Capricorn leads by worldly success.

Ambition is their middle name.

They are natural cardinal signs in that they are very opposed to being dominated.

They are the most determined and ambitious of the zodiac and are always motivated to take the lead.

They are happiest when challenged, as they are persistent and determined and like the sure-footed goat the represents them, by any means necessary; will do whatever it takes to get to and maintain their place at the top in a life of worldly success.

As leaders, they are responsible and conscientious and will not exactly turn their nose up at earning power.

They are workaholics.

They lead with an iron fist and run a tight ship—all rules are strictly enforced, as they know the benefits of playing by the rules.

If you want it done right and on schedule—don't do it yourself, grab hold of a Capricorn.

They hate competition and will only back down if they are the winner.

Those characteristics certainly put Capricorn ahead of the game of cardinal leadership.
